If you're looking to increase profits from your ecommerce business, it's time to start selling on Amazon! Ready to get your feet wet? Wondering how to make $1,000 per month selling on Amazon? Before we get into how to accomplish that, let's review some basics to see if selling on Amazon is the right opportunity for you.

Selling on Amazon with FBA

Storing your products in the Amazon fulfillment centers is cost-effective.

Now, you're all set to start selling on Amazon through FBA! Amazon will fulfil fill your orders, and you can focus on driving online sales.

Once you build trust and start generating sales, you may see that Amazon starts to promote your products. Amazon automatically promotes other products in the section on the product detail page under "Customers who bought this item also bought."

Price your item between MAP and MSRP pricing.

Ask yourself if your price is comparable to your competitors'. You need to have a competitive price and unique product descriptions so that your product ends up on page one of the Amazon search results. Page one results mean that customers are seeing your products first, which will increase the probability of a sale.
